Special Skills

After thirty years teaching public speaking and other communication courses at the graduate and undergraduate level, Dr. Holland (who does hold an earned doctorate in educational leadership) has “retired” to seek venues outside the classroom in which to perform. She plays the guitar, ukulele, and banjo and has an alto singing voice. She has taken a few dance courses in the past and can still do a tap, shuffle, ball, change. She enjoys walking, playing golf and a little pickle-ball.
